The Project Manual Is Now Available!

We want to start this final newsletter with an announcement we wanted to make for a while now. We are thrilled to announce a major milestone in our project: the completion of our comprehensive manual, "Empowering Creative Youth: A Guide to Talent Transformation and Competence Development in the Cultural Sector." This manual is now accessible to everyone interested in the project's objectives and outcomes, and it is a valuable resource that provides insights into the development of young artists and creatives.

The manual is divided into four modules, each focusing on essential aspects of talent development and soft skills. These modules cover topics from talent management, to personal entrepreneurial, and professional competencies. Within each module, you will find numerous non-formal education activities designed to help young artists and creatives build and improve these soft skills, transforming their talents into valuable competences.

You can find the manual on our project's official YW4CULT website, where it is available for free download in English, Estonian, Latvian, Italian, Greek, and Russian. This manual is the result of in-depth research and the collective effort of our dedicated team, designed to empower young artists in their journey of transforming their talents into valuable competences. It includes guidance, practical exercises, and expert insights that aim to assist young artists in realizing their full potential.
